

Admin Office of the Courts
2027-29 Regular Budget Session
Policy Level - B1 - Preserve Early Intrvntion for Juven

Agency Recommendation Summary

An abrupt 71 percent cut to juvenile court budgets for early intervention services in the 2025-27 biennial budget has left courts unable to provide basic early intervention services for children on a path for the juvenile court system. The Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) requests a restoration of these funds - $10,000,000 in ongoing funding – to more fully provide statewide early intervention services. Washington State’s approach to early intervention supports community-based truancy prevention, treatment of at-risk youth, and activities for children-in-need-of services. These interventions keep youth engaged in school and connected to supportive services. By coordinating interventions among courts, schools, and juvenile service providers, juvenile courts can reduce the need for deeper juvenile justice involvement. This preventative program stops kids from falling further into the juvenile court system, reducing taxpayer funds required for more expensive rehabilitative services in future years.
